NEW STUDENT & FAMILY PROGRAMS

FAMILY WEEKEND

Family Weekend is a tradition that has existed at Texas A&M University since 1919. Previously designated Mother's Day, Mother and Dad's Day, Parent Appreciation, Open House, and Parents' Weekend. While the name and events of the weekend have adapted throughout the years, the sentiment it represents remains the same - providing the ability for Aggies to express their gratitude to those who have impacted their lives.

At Texas A&M University, Family Weekend is held each Spring and is a weekend of events and programming designed specifically for families to experience Aggieland. We hope your family considers joining us for the next Family Weekend, which will be April 10-12, 2026.

If your family plans to attend Family Weekend 2026, we recommend reserving your accommodation as soon as possible. You can look at options through Destination Bryan (destinationbryan.com) or Visit College Station (visit.cstx.gov).

To learn more information about Family Weekend, including future dates and the schedule of events, please visit familyweekend.tamu.edu.

Through this position, Orientation Leaders build relationships, learn about campus resources, and develop transferable leadership skills. This position empowers current students to help shape a new Aggie's experience and to make a large impact on the campus community.

To learn more about this leadership opportunity, visit tx.ag/OLapp!

NSCs en Español

During New Student Conferences, Student Life hires a team of student leaders who translate content for incoming students' family members who prefer to receive communication in Spanish. This includes live translations of family sessions during the New Student Conference as well as translations of printed and virtual content that is distributed through the Texas A&M Family Portal.

Prevention and education are important steps to preventing the harmful impacts of alcohol misuse. Student Life's Alcohol and Other Drug Education staff provides one-on-one risk reduction, educational presentations, and campus programming to help change the culture around drinking and drug use. You can play an important role in preparing your students for college life by discussing alcohol use with them early and often. Check out "A Parent Handbook for Talking with College Students About Alcohol" for conversation starters, tips, and important information to prepare your student to navigate substances safely. Find it under the resources tab at tx.ag/PHTCS.

SAFETY

TELL SOMEBODY

On a college campus, sometimes behaviors of concern go unreported until a tragedy occurs, and then people come forward with bits of information that, in retrospect, may signal a larger issue. This information, when viewed collectively, may be helpful in preventing tragic events and initiating assistance to an individual. Texas A&M is committed to a proactive approach and needs your help.

Any member of the university community who observes any concerning behavior can go to tellsomebody.tamu.edu and provide detailed information on the report form.

CODE MAROON

The Code Maroon App comes with a number of new safety tools, and allows family members to get Code Maroon notifications. The app can be downloaded from the Apple App Store or Google Play Store.

If you have any questions or need assistance with the Code Maroon App, call Help Desk Central at 979.845.8300 or email them at helpdesk@tamu.edu. For more information about Code Maroon emergency text, email, and computer alerts, visit codemaroon.tamu.edu.

CORPS ESCORT

The Cadet Escort Program is a service provided by the Corps of Cadets to students between the hours of 6 p.m. and 7 a.m. on weekdays and all day on weekends during the Fall and Spring semesters. This service is closed on holidays and during final exams. Escorts are provided to and from the library, classroom buildings, parking areas, dorms, and other main campus locations.

The escort service does not extend beyond the West Campus Garage. Your student can find the number for the Corps Escort by scanning the QR code on the back of their Aggie ID.

LIVING IN ## OFF CAMPUS STUDENT SERVICES

Off Campus Student Services (OCSS), as a part of Student Life, supports students living off-campus through educational programs, resources, and individual consultations on various topics.

OCSS staff can assist students with everything from understanding their rights and responsibilities in the leasing process to navigating disputes with roommates or landlords. OCSS offers Leasing 101 workshops, conflict mediation services, and advice to address housing-related challenges.

When it comes to finding housing, AggieSearch is Texas A&M University's official off-campus housing website allowing students to filter available rental properties based on their specific needs, including price, location, lease term, and much more. AggieSearch can also help your student find a great new roommate or someone to re-let their current rental if your student needs to move before their lease ends. Additionally, the site provides helpful tools such as a roommate contract, a budgeting worksheet, and a list of questions to ask a potential landlord. Explore all that AggieSearch has to offer at aggiesearch.tamu.edu.

OCSS also works to help students understand how to be a positive presence in their neighborhoods by educating them about being good neighbors and complying with local ordinances. Finally, the office liaises with local government agencies, non-profits, and residents to help address issues that impact off-campus students. # Student Experience

AGGIE TRADITIONS

Whoop - Aggie upperclassmen and graduates will often say "Whoop!" as an expression of approval or excitement. It is most often used at the end of an Aggie yell. Underclassmen are not supposed to say the word until they have reached either junior or senior status.

Good Bull - "Good Bull" is a phrase used to describe anything that embraces or promotes the Aggie Spirit or the traditions of Texas A&M. It is also used to signify approval of virtually anything.

Gig 'Em - Aggies will often flash a thumbs up and say "Gig 'em!". Usually done with the right hand, the Gig 'em sign also showcases the Aggie Ring, which is traditionally worn on that hand. But even more than that, Gig 'em signals optimism, determination, loyalty, and the Aggie Spirit.

Midnight Yell - The night before every home game, Aggies hold Midnight Yell at Kyle Field. Every Fall, over 25,000 people participate in Midnight Yell. Midnight Yell is also held for every away game, usually at a location in or near the city where Texas A&M will play their opponent.

Yell Leaders - Aggies don't cheer — they yell. Instead of cheerleaders, Yell Leaders walk the sidelines. Yell leaders are a team of upperclassmen — three seniors and two juniors — elected each year by the student body.

Aggie Muster - A tradition unique to Texas A&M University that embodies and perpetuates the Aggie Spirit. Celebrated on April 21st every year, Muster engages thousands of Aggies worldwide to honor and celebrate the Aggie Family – past, present, and future.

Silver Taps - A final tribute is held the first Tuesday of the month when a current student has passed away the previous month.

Bonfire Memorial - Bonfire burned each year through 1998, with the exception of 1963. That year, Bonfire was built but torn down in a tribute to President John F. Kennedy, who was assassinated on Nov. 22, 1963. The second time that Bonfire did not burn was due to its collapse on Nov. 18, 1999 at 2:42 a.m. The collapse claimed the lives of 12 Aggies and injured 27 others. Five years later, the Bonfire Memorial was dedicated on the exact location of the fallen 1999 Bonfire.

The Century Tree - The Century Tree, located near the Academic Building, is well over 100 years old, and was one of the first trees planted on Texas A&M's massive 5,200-acre campus.

Reveille - Reveille is known as the First Lady of Aggieland and is Texas A&M's official mascot.

Fightin' Texas Aggie Band - The pulse of the Spirit of Aggieland has never lost a half-time!

Ross Volunteers - The oldest honor guard and drill team of its kind in the state, the Ross Volunteer Company is the Honor Guard of the Governor of the State of Texas.

Boot Dance - The junior class dance reflects their readiness to fill the shoes of the graduating senior class.

Senior Boots - Members of the Corps of Cadets look forward to their senior year when they are privileged to wear boots.

Other Things to Consider

Does your student know how to:

- ☐ Grocery shop/meal plan
- ☐ Cook simple meals
- ☐ Maintain a budget
- ☐ Do laundry
- ☐ Make appointments

Have you talked to your student about utilizing medical services and health insurance?

How will your student stay safe on campus?

Aggie Family Advice: Dealing with the Unexpected

As parents and family members of current college students, we know there are times in which your student may have to navigate an unexpected circumstance. Whether your student is not excelling the way they hoped or their car breaks down, we came up with some pieces of advice for how your family can navigate the unexpected alongside your student.

- Before their first day of class, discuss and define your student's definition of a crisis versus your definition of a crisis. Reiterate how you know they are capable of handling a crisis, but they may be faced with challenges they have not dealt with before and you are there to help.
- Set expectations for what your student will communicate with you and ask for there to be no surprises. Some families have found success in setting aside time every week or month to talk about logistical items (such as grades, bills, routine items, etc.).
- Recognize that every student is different and therefore your support will be different. Every semester and year may look different for your student so throughout their time in college, check in to see what support they need and revisit this worksheet as needed.

Aggie Family Checklists

These checklists were created by the Aggie Parent and Family Advisory Council as recommendations of items to complete as a Texas A&M University family member of an incoming student before the start of your student's first semester.

Health & Safety

- ❑ Download the Code Maroon Mobile App. The app has several safety tools, allowing family members to get Code Maroon notifications. For more information about Code Maroon emergency texts, emails, and computer alerts, visit codemaroon.tamu.edu.
- ❑ Ensure your student lists you as their emergency contact in the Howdy Portal. University officials can access this information in case of an emergency.
- ❑ Prepare a basic first aid kit to send off with your student. Consider packing items such as a thermometer, antibiotic cream, band aids, gauze, over-the-counter medications, alcohol wipes, gloves, etc.
- ❑ Remind your student that the campus emergency phone numbers are linked to the QR code on the back of their Aggie Card.
- ❑ Send a dependent copy of your health insurance plan card and pharmacy card (if applicable) with your student. Consider providing your student with a list of medical providers that your insurance covers in the event of an emergency. Additionally, ensure your student knows their general physician's name and contact information for medical history forms.

Finances

- ❑ Discuss personal finances and expectations with your student. (See Left)
- ❑ Discuss bill payment access. Students can grant family members access to the Bill Payment Suite at billpay.tamu.edu. This will allow access to view billing history and make payments.
- ❑ Make sure your student has set up their direct deposit information. This is the only way to receive refunds from the university. More information can be found at tx.ag/AOSDeposit.
- ❑ Discuss Scholarship and/or Financial Aid requirements and expectations with your student. Many scholarships and grants require your student to be enrolled as a full-time student (12 credit hours).

Logistics

- ❑ Confirm your student's housing accommodations for the year. If your student is living on-campus, refer to reslife.tamu.edu. If your student is living off-campus, refer to studentlife.tamu.edu/program-areas. Confirm the move-in date and try to have the necessary supplies before move-in day as stores tend to be busy in Aggieland during move-in weekend.
- ❑ Discuss transportation options for your student for the year. Whether they plan to purchase a parking permit, take the Aggie Spirit bus, or bike around campus, Texas A&M University is a large campus. It is important for your student to have a plan for getting around campus. Refer to transport.tamu.edu for additional information.
- ❑ Even if your student will live off-campus, decide if they will purchase a meal plan or make their own food. Learn more about on-campus dining plans at dining.tamu.edu.

ADDITIONAL FAMILY TASKS

- Save the Date for Family Weekend 2026 (April 10th-12th). Families are encouraged to make overnight accommodations early for Family Weekend as hotels fill up quickly. Find more information at: familyweekend.tamu.edu
- Purchase your official Aggie Family Gear. There are a number of shops in Aggieland that offer Aggie gear, including Barnes & Noble, The Warehouse, and Aggieland Outfitters.
- Finish setting up your Texas A&M Parent and Family portal account at tx.ag/familyportal.

AGGIE ADVICE

College is a time of transition for students and their family members. It is important to sit down with your student and discuss your expectations of them as they leave for the academic year. Remember your student is entering a new phase in their life and may need time to find their groove in a new academic setting. With classes, student organizations, and campus events, students can become busy once the school year begins, and you may not hear from them as often as you would like. Work with your student to set up a time to talk that works for them. Support them in their new endeavors, and help them dive into Aggie life.

Night game at Kyle Field

Your student's ability to set up good academic habits and routine is crucial to your student's success in their classes. Have a conversation with your student about their daily routine/schedule and ensure they have time set aside every day to work on homework or prepare for their classes. Many of your students are taking a full load of classes (at least 12 credit hours) and therefore the time commitment should be like a full-time job! This month also is a great time for your student to refer to their syllabus of the course to map out when they have homework assignments, quizzes, projects, and exams in each of their classes. It will help them be responsible for their actions and serve as a daily reminder for what they need to accomplish.

Texas A&M has over 1,300 student organizations for your student to choose from. Studies show students who are involved in a student organization experience higher GPAs than students who are not involved. Whether your student is looking to make new friends, learning something new, or gain leadership skills, encourage your student to find an organization to join. If your student is not interested in an organization, encourage them to get involved in other activities – whether that is an on-campus job, research opportunity with a faculty member, or volunteering at a local organization.

AGGIE ADVICE

One of the greatest impacts you can have on your student is to find ways to encourage them – some examples could be a good luck text, a card in the mail, or sending them a gift card for their favorite coffee place. Occasionally, students will only communicate the negative aspects of their experiences, so it is important to ask them about the positive experiences they are having inside and outside the classroom. To complement these discussions, make sure to hold realistic expectations for your student. Your student may not get a perfect 4.0 in college, and that's okay! When they come across bumps along the way, ask them what their strategy is to solve it and help them create a game plan to put the responsibility back on your student.

With the winter break approaching, know that the transition from college life to home life can be a tricky one for students and their family members. Students become accustomed to having their own schedule while in college, whether they live at home or in their own place. It is important to discuss expectations about family obligations before winter break begins to avoid tension or conflict. It is essential that your entire family discusses this new adjustment and understands that everyone is growing and changing each semester.

Throughout your student's time at Texas A&M, they have likely developed many relationships. These can be between friends, classmates, professors, or even a romantic partner! A best practice is to talk with your student about their newly found connections to ensure they are healthy. # AGGIE ADVICE

With course registration opening in mid-spring, it is a great time to speak with your student regarding their academic future. Students should visit their academic advisor at least once a semester to check on their degree plan and select appropriate courses to register for in the upcoming semester. This is also a great time for them to ask about summer classes as their advisor will help make sure they select the appropriate courses. If your student is considering changing majors, they also can talk to their advisor about the change of major process as it is different for each college.

AGGIE ADVICE

April begins a time of stress for many students as they near the end of the semester and approach finals. Listen to your student, and clarify what they need from you as a family member. Sometimes they may need someone to vent to, and other times they need advice; however, it is important to let them make this distinction. If they do ask for advice, some helpful tips you can suggest for stress relief are: organizing their calendar for the month, encouraging them to take some "me time," and communicating with people who will listen, like you! This is also a great time to send a care package to your student to help them prepare for those final exams.

AGGIE ADVICE

May is an exciting time for families as many students return home for summer. Be aware your student may have developed new behaviors and even a new appearance over the year. Now is a good time to discuss "rules of the home" while also understanding your student has just returned from an environment with no chores or curfews and now has no homework to consume their time. Finding a compromise in their new found freedom and your house rules will be imperative to having a smooth transition for you and your student. If your student is staying in Aggieland or leaving for an internship, communicate with them, and make sure they have a plan of action for the summer months.

As your student prepares for their second year at Texas A&M, an important topic of conversation for your student and family to revisit is their budget for the upcoming year. Especially if the expectations have changed related to your student having an on- or off-campus job, their monthly allowance, or the expenses that are the student's responsibility. A great resource to support your family in this conversation can be found on the family programs website (familyprograms.tamu.edu) – the Summer Break Tune Up Checklist.
